

Monarchs on a Mission Educator Workshop

Monarchs are fascinating creatures. From their fall migration totaling some 3,000 miles to their specific feeding and lifecycle requirements, Monarchs never fail to captivate the hearts and minds of teachers and students.

Educators are invited to join Northern Prairies Land Trust and the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission as we immerse ourselves in the life and habits of the Monarch Butterfly. This workshop will focus on inquiry based lessons you can use inside your classroom as well as activities you can use to take your students outdoors.

Upon completion of this workshop you will receive a voucher. You are asked to document the implementation or use of the resources from the Monarchs on a Mission Workshop, in your classroom. You can then turn in your voucher to checkout a monarch caterpillar rearing kit complete with caterpillars!

Participants will receive:

- Monarchs and More: An Inquiry and Arthropod Based Curriculum
- Monarch educational resources
- Inspiration and guidance to incorporate activities into your classroom

Who should attend?
